1. Introduction

Since the 18th National Congress of the COMMUNIST Party of China, General Secretary Xi Jinping has made a series of important remarks on strengthening labor education in the light of the development of the cause of the Party and the country, with a view to training builders and successors who are morally, intellectually, physically, aesthetically and labor-working in an all-round way for the cause of socialism with Chinese characteristics, and training new people to assume the great responsibility of national rejuvenation. To thoroughly implement general Secretary Xi Jinping's series of important statements on labor education, it is necessary to comprehensively enhance young students' recognition of labor value and labor education, and give full play to the important role of labor education in cultivating people with moral integrity[1].

2. The Re-understanding of the Meaning of Labor

Labor is a purposeful activity of human beings and a creative process of material and spiritual wealth. In Marx's opinion, labor is the duty set for everyone, the ideal life is the life of labor, and the ideal society is the society of everyone's labor.

Labor creates man. man is the creation of labor. Engels pointed out in his article "The Role of Labor in the Transformation from ape to Man" that "Labor creates man himself. Labor has played a creative role in promoting the evolution of apes into human beings. For example, labor gradually transformed the forelimbs of apes into human arms, and the hands could be used to make and use tools. Instinctive labor promoted the development of specialization of hands and feet. Or Labour creates language[2]. With the division of labor of hands and feet and the emergence of upright walking, human vision has been improved, there is a need to cooperate with each other, help each other, so the need to exchange ideas, coordinated action, and then gradually produced language. Labor also creates a brain capable of thinking. Due to the emergence of language, human beings began to have thinking and consciousness, and with the abundance of food, human brain continued to develop into a self-aware and thinking human brain.

Labor creates wealth. In order to survive and develop, human society must have material wealth and spiritual wealth. All material wealth is formed by labor processing materials provided by nature. For example, grain, farmer labor action on soil, fertilizer, water, the formation of seed; Paper, is the effect of labor on the formation of plant fiber; All kinds of materials of mobile phones are formed by minerals such as silicon and iron that work on all kinds of natural minerals. Spiritual wealth is also created by labor. The first form of art, such as music and painting, the first form of language and writing, and the first form of science, such as calculation, measurement and astronomy, came into being in labor. After the division of labor, some people specialized in the spiritual fields of science, art, religion, education and so on. The most precious human spirit comes from labor, such as the spirit of diligence, frugality, respect for nature and so on.

Labor creates progress. First, labor constitutes the basis for social progress. Marx once pointed out that "any nation will perish if it stops working, not to mention for a year, even for a few weeks." If a person wants to survive and progress, he must first eat, wear, live and travel. He needs the production of material wealth -- labor. Labor is the living condition of human beings that does not take all forms of society as the transfer. Second, labor promotes the development of productive forces. Through the improvement and innovation of the objects and tools of labor, it promotes the improvement of human beings' ability to create and adapt to nature, and the development of productive forces further promotes the progress of production relations, economic foundation and superstructure. Third, labor promotes the all-round development of human beings. The highest level of human development is all-round development, and to achieve all-round development, man must rely on Labour[3].

3. Work is the Foundation on Which a Man Stands

Our education to cultivate art of morality, intelligence and physique full scale development of socialist builders and successors, and labor is the foundation of people, labor education should be brought into the party's education policy, is the embodiment of the respect talented person growth rule and rule of education, it not only determine a person's material life condition, but also affect a person's mental outlook and mental development. The specific performance is as follows.

Labor determines one's outlook on the world, values and life. A worldview is how people perceive the nature of the world. The world is a matter, the motion of matter is regular, grasp and use the law of the motion of matter requires the correct standpoint, viewpoint and method. The Marxist world outlook needs to be perceived and established by studying labor, scientific experiment and production practice, and it is difficult to establish a correct and firm world outlook divorced from labor and practice[4]. It was through their hard work and participation in the revolutionary practices of the working class that Marx and Engels established dialectical and historical materialism.

Labor determines one's outlook on career, study and time. Career view is people's view of career and work, which reflects their own ability and social role. The correct career view is to match their own ability with the social division of labor, to find their own appropriate position in the society. Only with such a professional view, can you "love a line of work and become an expert in each industry". To achieve this, the key depends on labor, labor accumulation of vocational skills, vocational awareness; Improve vocational ability and level through labor.

Labor determines one's view of wealth and consumption. The correct view of wealth is to earn wealth by labor and cherish the wealth created by labor. The wealth created through labor is often soaked in their own labor efforts and sweat, contains personal labor experience and real feelings, know the way to choose wealth, know how to save and create wealth. People who do not love to work do not understand the hardships and difficulties of wealth, often love ease and toil, long for unearned gain, delude one's imagination to make money quickly or become rich overnight, the result is often not cherish wealth, or even easy to take a wrong road and wrong road, thus destroying life[5].

Labor determines one's sense of self and happiness. A self view is a person's view of himself and his relationship to others. The self-concept of workers is to see themselves as they are and correctly handle the relationship between themselves and others. Because the process of labor is the process of objectifying the outside world, and the process of labor is also the process of dealing with the relationship between oneself and the outside world and others. Laborers can see themselves and others correctly, and be modest and inclusive. On the contrary, no labor, lack of objectified cognitive process, will appear arrogant, closed, not good at dealing with a series of external problems[6].

4. Educates the University Student to Achieve the Dream in the Labor

Labor education is an important part of the education system of socialism with Chinese characteristics. It is very necessary to guide young college students to take labor as the foundation of their lives and build their dreams through labor. Labor is also an important bridge between the knowledge world, the living world and the working world, as well as an important channel to establish life cognition and life cognition. The growth of college students cannot be separated from the exercise of labor, labor education is to work in study, to learn in labor, and to achieve dreams through labor[7].

Stick to arming your mind with The Marxist concept of labor. College students in the new era should arm their minds with The Marxist concept of labor, earnestly study and implement a series of important statements of General Secretary Xi Jinping on labor, and establish a correct concept of labor. We should take work as the foundation for building our bodies, build our dreams and realize them through work.

Scientifically design labor education courses and implementation approaches. What is labor? It is labor for college students to carry out practical activities or participate in club activities in combination with professional courses. It is labor for college students to volunteer in community, countryside and street. It is also labor for college students to use their spare time or vacation time to do tutoring and part-time jobs. It can be said that the labor of college students is relatively broad, if there is no comprehensive systematic planning and design and reasonable implementation, even if there is labor, it may not be able to achieve good educational results[8].

Adhere to the organic integration of labor education and campus culture. To emphasize labor education is to carry forward the fine tradition of attaching importance to labor education and practice education in universities. Through real work, we should start from strengthening self-disciplined life, studying hard, paying attention to saving resources, maintaining the environment carefully, devoting ourselves to volunteer service, participating in club activities, carrying out social practice and part-time work and other things within our ability, so as to feel the happiness and the great of labor through practice[9].

To complete the building of a moderately prosperous society in all respects and realize the Chinese dream of the great rejuvenation of the Chinese nation, fundamentally speaking, we must rely on labor and the hard work of laborers to realize this dream[10]. Strengthening the labor education of college students in the new era is an important way for colleges and universities to fulfill the fundamental task of establishing morality and educating people. It is also a practical need to promote the all-round development of college students in the new era. Colleges and universities have great responsibilities and glorious mission!
